Varianta 1

You and some of your classmates are touring an old monastery as part of a History class. You get lost on the winding corridors when suddenly there is a huge elephant right there in front of you. The poor animal seems desperate. How did it get in there? Is it supposed to be there somehow? Should you get it out or not? How?

Imagine a 5 to 6 minute conversation you are having in order to decide.

Varianta 2

You and your best friends decide to take advantage of the sunny weather outside and hike through the woods. One of you almost stumbles upon what seems to be a tiny two legged creature making its way through the grass. When the creature sees you, it disappears as if it had never been there, going down a hole. What or who is it? What is down the hole? What's going on?

Imagine an 6 to 7 minute conversation you are having in order to figure out what's happening.
